Award winners:

Every year, March, 21, World Down Syndrome Day (WSDSD) is celebrated. This includes the awarding of those whose voluntary, professional or scientific activities have strengthened or enriched the lives of people with Down syndrome or contributed to scientific advancement related to Down syndrome.

This year, Rosemary Nambooze was nominated in the voluntary and professional category for her outstanding contribution towards the strengthening and enriching the lives of people with Down syndrome. "I have been invited by the International office to attend the official awarding ceremony at the 12th World Down Syndrome Congress in Chennai, India in August this year, where I will be handed over my award." Rosemary says she is extremely honored for such an important award but she admits that, somewhere deep inside, she saw it coming one day. She however added that such award could not have been achieved without the inspiration she has received from her husband, staff of Angles center for children with special needs and her partners more especially in Belgium and UK for whom she has deep respect, and from whom she has derived the strength to challenge herself and perform better at every stage.

We are grateful to World Mission Help( Wereld Missie Hulp) Belgium who have provided us with early learning furniture including wheelchairs, CP chairs, children chairs, teachers' chairs, Children dinning/feeding tables and chairs.

Provision of integrated therapy services

We have sustained the different kinds of therapies at the center and all children are receiving occupational therapy with a focus of identifying environmental barriers to individuality and involvement in daily activities. Children have been supported through various interventions including adapting the environment, modification of tasks and teaching skill with a purpose of increasing participation and performance of daily activities. Nevertheless, other children have benefited from Speech and Language therapy. Oral motor skills have been addressed for proper structure, function, speech and sound production to children. Emphasis has been intended to improve coordination, strength, movement and placement of the lip seal, tongue and cheeks. Thank you the city of Antwerp for continuously sustaining this cause!!!!

Home visits

Home visits were carried out in eight homes. The aim of home visits was to assess the home environment of the children and to provide improved opportunity for educating and training family members on how to handle their children. Home visit questionnaires and observation were used as guiding tools in assessing home environment. Therapist elaborated and explained the kind and level of intervention given to individual child. More so, parents were given chance to raise any concerns about their children.

A transformation story from Faustine's father during a home visit.
"Special child, special parent"

This is a story from Mugerwa Regan aged 36 years a resident of Mageere, Gayaza, and Wakiso district. Regan is a father to Faustine Nampeera. She is one of children at the Angel's Center. Faustine is now 5 years old diagnosed with delayed development.(mild learning challenges). "Faustine is a special child to us as her parents." said Regan. We have learnt a lot from Faustine as a family right from her birth, he exclaimed. "By the time we had Faustine, we were still in a small two roomed house, he said". It was a normal delivery at 1:00pm; Faustine was born in Case hospital, Kampala. She cried a lot after birth and had to stay in the hospital for more 3 days. "We have watched Faustine develop slowly by slowly and indeed she has had delayed milestones, He said". Faustine started sitting at 8months and 2 weeks and walking at 2years and 7 months.

Faustine's health has been disturbing all throughout; every two to three months we are in hospital. "One day, we were about to lose Faustine due to pneumonia." They went to Kololo Hospital found no paediatrician on duty and were referred to St. Catherine Hospital (children's hospital) and they were admitted for 5 days. “We had lost hope in Faustine”, he said. In addition to that condition, at 3 years Faustine swallowed a cell of toy phone. It was another hectic period we experienced, he said. They rushed to the hospital for quick help and thought she was to be operated, but fortunately the operation did not take place only that the doctor told them to give her a lot of fluids and it was excreted out through the feces. The cell brought us to the attention of sieving Faustine’s excreta (feces), he exclaimed. We observed the cell come out of her body after 3 days when it had unpeeled itself and the color of the feces was green.

Regan said that they had negative talks and stigma from the neighborhood and the whole community about Faustine being a special needs child. For instance, when we go to church or other social gatherings, children run away from her not wanting to play with her.

With the special intervention and integrated therapy services provided to Faustine at Angel’s Center, today we appreciate what she is, he said. She is quite naturally happy, interesting and has slowly progressed. For example she has improved on feeding and has reduced saliva drooling from her mouth. She has improved automatic utterances especially in singing.

Lastly, Faustine has made her family be bond together. It has brought them together meaning that every family member is concerned about Faustine’s situation by taking action in case of a serious problem.
